Troops Take Over In Turk Cities Following Rioting

ISTANBUL (AP)—The Turkish government re-imposed martial law on Istanbul and Izmir Wednesday night and called Parliament into special session in the wake of anti-Greek riots.

Martial law was lifted for about 12 hours in Istanbul and Izmir, Turkey's two largest cities, during the day. But today it was restored and extended to Ankara, the capital.

Premier Adnan Menderes announced the intention after an emergency session of his cabinet, which also summoned Parliament to a special session opening next Monday.

The outbreaks followed the dragging dispute over the future of Cyprus, British-held island bastion in the Mediterranean. The Greeks want Cyprus, which has a big majority of Greek-descended residents. Turkey, which lost Cyprus to Britain in 1914, says it must get the island back if Britain ever quits it. British-Greek-Turkish talks in London on the issue have ended in disagreement.

ternal injuries when he placed a pall of water in front of the bull. Joe Saville, owner of the prize animal, said the bull struck at the pail, knocked it flying, and threw Nicholson off balance.

STAGGERED
"As Nicholson staggered," Mr. Saville related, "the bull gored him."

The bull, Glenagary Enterprise, was snubbed up fairly closely with two ropes from the nose ring to either side of the stall and a heavy halter rope. Only the fact that the animal was so closely snubbed saved Nicholson from being much more severely injured.

The injured man was rushed to King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan, where emergency treatment was given by three doctors. His condition at midnight was reported critical.

It was the first such serious accident in many years at the exhibition which runs for three days starting today.

From one little flower to another, "You smell sweet," said Elizabeth March, 5, of Mill Bay. She was one of the most appreciative of 1,500 visitors to the Shawigan-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute and Agricultural Society's 46th annual fair yesterday. Carnations are her favorites. ## Mass Tie-Up Looms

U.S. Dock Strike Threatens Canada

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) closed the port of New York Wednesday in a quarrel with a bi-state waterfront control commission.

Within a few hours after the walkout started, shippers obtained a state supreme court order directing the strikers to return to work.

The restraining order drew no immediate reaction from the ILA. "This is spreading very rapidly," said ILA president William Bradley. "If something isn't done by Monday, we'll have the whole coast tied up."

But at Montreal Donat Bilodeau, Canadian vice-president of the ILA said there is no danger of a tie-up in Canadian ports. "Although vessels diverted from although vessels diverted from the States would not be handled. He said Canadian longshoremen will respect their agreement with the Canadian Shipping Federation.

The strike was the climax to months of turmoil along the 350 miles of New York waterfront. The ILA said it was trying to "obliterate" the New York-New Jersey waterfront commission, a bi-state pier policing agency.

Caught in the middle in the walkout were 170 shipping companies, with whom the ILA signed a no-strike contract last January. They stand to lose $1,000,000 for every day the port is tied up. The employer group, the New York Shipping Association, said it will sue for damages. It called the work stoppage a "flagrant violation" of its contract with the ILA.

A number of ships were stranded in port by the strike. However, the big British liner, Queen Mary, got away without being put to the Security Council, delay.

Britain, France and the United States requested the meeting and demanded maintenance of an "unconditional cease-fire."

The Big Three Western powers also endorsed Gen. Burns' proposals and issued a draft resolution to be put to the Security Council, delay.

Gen. Burns also called for the erection of a "physical barrier" possibly barbed wire—along the border.

Israel Wednesday night agreed to building a physical barrier but did not accept Gen. Burns' proposal for keeping defensive positions and motorized patrols at least 500 metres on either side of the demarcation line. An Egyptian spokesman in Cairo said his government is studying proposals.

The UN Security Council meets today to discuss Gen. Burns' suggestions, included in a report to the UN.

Constituents at Lillooet Hear Railway Promise

BY RAY BAINES
Daily Colonist Staff Reporter

LILLOOET—The Pacific Great Eastern Railway will be complete from Vancouver to Fort St. John by December, 1957.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett gave this "heartening" news to Lillooet constituents in a by-election speech here last night in which he called Gordon Gibson, Liberal candidate and former MLA, the man who "led the attack against the PGE extension."

The premier disclosed, also, that damage in the summer floods had meant a $250,000 bill for B.C.'s railway, only means of communication for Lillooet with the rest of B.C.

"In spite of it," he said, "the railway will make an operating profit of $500,000 this year."

The premier, speaking in support of Social candidate Donald Robinson, a PGE engineer, said when his government took office in 1952 there were more employees in B.C.'s hospital insurance organization than there were men in the charge of the Light Brigade.

"And, oh, what a charge they made," he quipped.

LABORED IN VAIN
He recalled the efforts of the late E. C. Carson, "a man who was almost worshipped in this area," who labored "in vain" for Lillooet as a Conservative member of the Coalition government.

"That is why Lillooet was the most neglected riding in B.C. under the old administration," he declared.

The lively meeting drew 250 persons, peppered with Liberals and small loggers.

The premier and Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers answered a barrage of questions, mostly from three or four members of the audience.

SOCIAL SUPPORTERS
Most of the audience appeared to be Social Credit supporters. Both the premier and Sommers were applauded when they answered questions, as their questioners were booed.

"This is one of the best meetings we've ever had," the premier said after the dust settled.

One man asked the Social Credit candidate to explain Social Credit monetary theories. But the premier intervened, calling it "an unfair question."

He said the B.C. legislature does not control Canada's currency. He would deal with straight questions, Premier Bennett added, but not with "political trick questions."

The premier speaks at Clinton tonight.

Two reasons for the program appeared likely:

1. Shanghai is too crowded, leading to widespread hunger and unemployment.

2. Peasants who left their farms for what they thought was the paradise of Shanghai are needed to increase agricultural production.

For more than a year, the Reds have complained about the "blind influx" of peasants into the cities and the need to make them return to their homes. The pleas from Peiping apparently went unheeded.

Miss M. J. Sinclair 51-year-old British woman who got out of communist China last month, told of adverse public reaction to the evacuation which resulted in a slowdown. But this apparently was only temporary.

At least, the evacuation still goes on although the daily number moved out has dropped from the originally planned 30,000 to less than 10,000.

Rare Cranes About To Run Gauntlet

NEW YORK (AP)—The world's few surviving whooping cranes are about to make their annual 2,500-mile southern flight—with hunters to be encountered along much of the course.

Fearful that scattered shots will wipe out the almost extinct bird, the National Audubon Society is suing a plea to gunners Wednesday to spare the tall white birds and their brown offspring.

The whooping cranes will be flying this month from the wilds of northern Canada to their winter home—the Arkansas national wildlife refuge near Austwell, Tex.

In the group will be two sets of young twins, another young one, and some 21 adults.

Their route probably will take them over the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

During their stay with the police, Mrs. Churchill telephoned the prime minister's wife and reported later, "Lady Eden was terribly upset when I told her what had happened."

The 46-year-old artist and his wife, also a painter, denied the charge. They were released on bail after half an hour in a police station and were ordered to appear in court this morning.

Gone About as Fur As She Can Go!

SEATTLE (AP)—Mrs. Peggy Fraser of Juneau, Alaska, created quite a stir Wednesday when she arrived at the Seattle-Tacoma International airport wearing a fur piece.

Not often does a fur piece—even a skunk fur piece—cause any excitement. But this one was alive.

Two seamen probably saved this northeastern coast fishing town Tuesday night when they leaped aboard the blazing oil-laden motor vessel Winnifred Lee and dropped her anchors in mid-harbor.

The ship caught fire late in the afternoon at the government wharf. She carried 500 drums of oil and gasoline for delivery farther north.

Capt. Douglas Manuel ordered the crew aboard his motor vessel Botwood and they attempted to drag the burning ship out of the harbor.

The first line broke. By the time a second was rigged and the ship towed to mid-harbor, oil drums were exploding and flames were shooting high into the air.

JUMP CLEAR
Fearing the Winnifred Lee would break again and drift ashore near other vessels and warehouses, Capt. Manuel had the Botwood move in near the swirling inferno. Two unidentified seamen jumped aboard.

While drums erupted behind them in blasts of flame, smoke and flying metal, the men calmly dropped the anchors, holding the burning ship in a relatively harmless spot.

They jumped clear just before the fire reached the hold and wrecked the ship with a final great explosion.

Reds Tap German Hotel Rooms
BONN, Germany (AP)—Members of the West German delegation to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's talks with Soviet leaders are reported to have found their Moscow hotel rooms tapped with hidden microphones.

The delegation's advance guard arrived in the Soviet capital Wednesday after a 62-hour trip by special train from Bonn.

The new design involves slimming the streamlined fuselage or aircraft body down across the wing section and allowing it to return to the conventional shape aft of the wings.

Drug Addicts Raid Hospitals
VANCOUVER (CP)—Drug addicts raided two Vancouver hospitals Tuesday in futile attempts to steal supplies of narcotics, police disclosed Wednesday.

One man, who raided Pearson TB hospital was frightened away by Mrs. G. B. Black, head nurse. Another man was frightened from the operating room of St. Vincent's hospital where the narcotics drawer had been tampered with.

To Speed Jets
WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the defence department's closely guarded secrets—the great importance of the "Marilyn Monroe" design in supersonic fighter planes—slipped out Wednesday.

Fred Hamlin, publisher of Aero Digest, said the new fuselage design is "one of the major aerodynamic breakthroughs in the last decade."

It is believed that the military intends to found an entire aircraft family based on this fuselage, the magazine said. It greatly increases a jet plane's speed without an increase in engine power.

First plane to use the design—also called the "coke bottle shape"—was the Grumman F9F Tiger, a carrier-based jet fighter.

Industry sources said that merely slimming down the waist of a fighter plane reduces drag on the aircraft by 15 to 25 per cent, during passage through the extremely turbulent airflow encountered just below, during and just above the speed of sound.

Males Swing Away ...

Leggy 'Glamazons' Stuff Dreams Made Of

WASHINGTON (UP)—An expert stuck his chin way out last night and said American men no longer dream about cute little blondes with no brains.

The current male ideal, he reported, is the "glamazon." A tall, statuesque girl with a lot of classic beauty and at least a smattering of intelligence.

Dr. W. M. Krogman hastened to say he has nothing personal against girls who are short, blonde or stupid. He said he was merely passing along some observations he has made as an anthropologist.

Krogman, University of Pennsylvania professor and nationally known authority in his field, expressed his opinions to reporters after reading a technical paper to a meeting of physical anthropologists here.

As a case in point, Krogman cited the Miss America contest in Atlantic City. It is a matter of record, he said, that the choice of the judges in recent years has been a tall, sinewy beauty who has demonstrated some kind of talent.

It was different in the old days. Twenty years or so ago, said Krogman, it was almost invariably "a petite little blonde who may or may not have had any brains."

"The ideal of American womanhood has changed radically and for the better," he asserted. "Nowadays it goes beyond mere beauty of face and figure. It includes excellence of mind. We've gone back to the Greek ideal that called for a sound mind and a sound body."

Krogman said this marks progress for American women. In his view it means that men more and more value women for their intelligence and ability as well as physical beauty.

Krogman and his fellow-scientists specializing in the study of man are holding a seminar on the role of anthropology in the identification of skeletons and bodies.

Announcers on radio giveaway programs sound quite smooth and urbane. They are apparently on good terms with everybody.

However, the listener usually does not hear the voice on the other end of the telephone, and I feel that the announcer's voice does not always truly mirror the tones of the conversation.

I give you a report of an imaginary late-night session of the program "Ninety-Nine to One."

Announcer: That was Burp McGool and his Western Five playing the "Nausea Blues." And now, folks, for our 99th question; which, as you know, is our sponsor question. What special price is the Ace Scavenger Service offering for old vinegar bottles this week? And while you are thinking that one over, here is Burp McGool again, playing "I Gave You My Heart, Little Darlin', But They Took the Trick With a Spade."

... Neat little number, wasn't it? But it wasn't such a neat little number as the number of dollars we're going to give away tonight—we hope! Ha, ha! There is exactly $20,438 in the jackpot tonight, friends. So here we go on the late edition of Ninety-Nine to One with that all-important phone call. I'm dialing the number now. The telephone has rung once... two rings... three rings... four rings... five rings... Hello! Is that the home of Mr. Felix Goatgirdle, 1520 Jail street?

Goatgirdle (unheard by the radio audience): Yeah. Whoozat? Whaddya want?

Announcer: This is Ninety-Nine to One calling, Mr. Goatgirdle.

Goatgirdle: How much? What are you, a bookie? I don't bet on the horses no more, Mac.

Announcer: Yes, that's right. Well, we have $20,438 to give away tonight. Is your radio tuned to Ninety-Nine to One, Mr. Goatgirdle?

Goatgirdle: Whoozat? Radio? Lissen, pal, I been in bed for an hour now. Your biggeddy blaggy phone call woke me out of a deep sleep, and for what? I still can't figure what your heating your gums about. What kinda gag is this anyway? I don't go in for jokes on the phone, this time night.

Announcer: That's too bad, Mr. Goatgirdle. You usually listen to Ninety-Nine to One, but the cat knocked the radio in the bathtub, eh? Well, I hope you have it repaired in time to listen to our next program. Better luck next time, Mr. Goatgirdle. I wish I could have given you the $20,438, but...

Goatgirdle: Willyu quit the double talk, Buster, and get down to business? I ain't standin' around here in my pyjamas all night.

Announcer: Oh, you'd gone to bed. I'm very sorry, Mr. Goatgirdle. Well, you don't get the jackpot this time, but we do have a great big silver dollar which we want to give you for being such a good sport. You can call at the station any time and pick it up.

Goatgirdle: Silver dollar? You call me up inna middle of the night to give me one miserable buck? Well, you know what you can do with your silver dollar, Mac. You can...

Announcer: Give it to the Solarium, you say? All right, Mr. Goatgirdle, we'll do just that. Thank you, and good night.

Garden Notes

Sketch Needed For Rotation

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One job which should be done before all the vegetable crops are lifted is to get out there with a pencil and paper and make a careful sketch, to scale, of the vegetable plot, and showing what was growing each row. If you don't get this done now, sure as shooting you'll forget what was where, and you're going to need such a sketch when you plan next year's cropping.

The idea back of the sketch is to make sure the same kind of plants are not grown on the same soil two years running. While this rotational cropping is not absolutely necessary, and while you may get away with growing the same row of runner beans over the same back fence for a number of years, it is only good common sense and good gardening to move the vegetable rows around in a systematic fashion.

ABNORMAL BUILD-UP

When the same kind of plants are grown in the same soil year after year, invariably there is an abnormal build-up of the diseases and pests peculiar to that race of plants. For example, the maggots which so often infest our carrots pupate through the winter in the soil of our carrot rows. In the spring, the adult lady carrot fly emerges and finds a nice new row of fresh young carrot plants right under her nose. What could be more convenient!

The same thing holds for the white mould of onions, the celery miner, and the various wilts and blights which attack tomato plants. It would be foolish in the extreme to go on planting members of the cabbage family in an area infected with the club root disease.

By moving the rows of cabbage, cauliflower, kale and Brussels sprouts away from this area on a four-course rotation, the infected soil would have a three-year holiday from these members of the cabbage family, and without a host plant, the disease spores tend to die out.

CROP ROTATION

A good plan for any given section of your vegetable plot would be something like this: First year, potatoes. Second year, peas and beans. Third

On the Labor Front

ITU Will Lead Attack on Act

BY BILL MAVOR

A new onslaught on the Labor Relations Act led by the typographical unions in B.C. may be shaping for Victoria the Trades Union Congress convention at Vancouver, Sept. 28.

tion support to have the act amended to permit strike votes on an industry-wide basis.

In many cases strike votes are conducted at individual plants. A majority "no" vote in a plant would mean that strike action could not be taken in that one shop.

The typographical unions claim that in firms where there are perhaps two or three workers the strike vote result becomes non-secret and that an industry-wide vote would preclude this.

The act has been attacked previously on this point and the move may provoke other resolutions against the act which brought strong union protests when it was passed in 1954.

SORE POINT

The convention also may find itself in a boil over the proposed merger of the CCL and TLU, and the no-raiding agreement given assent by both groups.

The merger will be discussed by the TUC, parent body of Trades and Labor Congress unions in B.C., at a time when the CCL-CIO steelworkers' union is again increasing efforts to wrest control of Kitimat workers from a TLU union.

Kitimat is a lone area excepted from the no-raiding agreement but workers of a Kitimat union may ask the convention to have the CCL and TLU chiefs confer for a settlement.

Representing the Island will be Victor Midgley, Victoria Carpenters' Union and TUC vice president, and Percy Rayment, TUC council secretary, zone representative.

The construction boom on Vancouver Island diminished efforts this year to put the TLU-sponsored "Union Label Buying Week" before the public.

Laborers' union business agent Earl Allen, annually in charge of arrangements here, said his own union's business on the Island kept him tied up during the past two weeks.

Sponsored by the TLU to acquaint the public and union members with products of shops holding union contracts, the buying week began on Labor Day. Lack of arrangements prevented displays in stores.

Trade unions received 17 certificates to represent various employees during the week ended Aug. 26, the Labor Relations Board announced yesterday.

Two were province-wide certifications and five were for Vancouver Island unions. The latter include the carpenters' union for employees of Castle Homes Ltd., F. J. Hunter and Son, and Robert Wall, all of Victoria.

Courtesy local IWA, will represent logging employees of R. Malpas Logging Ltd. of Nanaimo.

Laborers' local in Victoria was certified for certain employees of A. H. Winter.

B.C. Plays Host To 500 Editors

Hundreds of editors from across Canada are converging on Vancouver for the annual convention next week of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

With an estimated attendance of more than 500 it will be one of the largest meetings of newspapermen ever held in Canada. Premier W. A. C. Bennett will be among the convention speakers.

Scholarships Available for Artists

Scholarships for 10 struggling young artists are available at Mrs. H. C. MacDonald and Mrs. Norfolk Galleries an Art School, 1106 Broad, which opened yesterday for its second season. They are available through the generosity of four Greater Victoria women—Mrs. H. R. Telfer, Mrs. J. H. Telfer, Mrs. J. H. Telfer, and Mrs. J. H. Telfer.

Invited to apply for scholarships. The awards are for full-time tuition which can be taken either in the afternoon or evening. Students will be allowed to select their own courses, which will run to June 30. Faculty members include: Arthur D. J. Pitts, general drawing, water color and carving; Peggy Packard, sculpture and general drawing; Mott Graham, commercial art; Charles R. Seyfert, wood carving; Frank L. Beebe, hair brush technique; and Don Murray, pottery and ceramics.

New Lieutenant-Governor

FORMAL word from Ottawa that Mr. Frank McKenney Ross, CMG, MC, an industrialist of Vancouver and Montreal, will succeed Hon. Clarence Wallace as lieutenant-governor of British Columbia on Oct. 3, when the latter's term ends, will be received with interest in Victoria. Although the new incumbent is not widely known here, both he and Mrs. Ross may be assured of an open-hearted and friendly welcome to the capital city. A native of Glasgow, and a commissioned veteran of the First World War in which he was decorated for distinguished action, Mr. Ross will bring a wide knowledge of Canada and a special interest in British Columbia with him to the post. On both scores that should be helpful, and should continue the bond of understanding at Government House.

The formal induction of Mr. and Mrs. McKenney Ross at Government House next month will precede by a few days the anticipated arrival of HRH Princess Mary, who thus will be the first Royal guest under the new regime. It will also mark the departure of Hon. Clarence Wallace and Mrs. Wallace, who for going on five years have made themselves one with the capital city and all of its activities. While there will be understandable regret at the termination of one of the most successful tours of duty in the position, the feeling abides that the cordial relations engendered in that time will remain as enduring evidence of the unselfish service rendered by His Honor and Mrs. Wallace. Because of their outstanding success, Government House has never been held in wider or deeper esteem.

To the new incumbent and Mrs. Ross should go the loyal co-operation of everyone in the community; not only in the right of succession but also in understanding sympathy of a difficult and onerous obligation, the assumption of which implies self-sacrifice and a life more or less in the public eye. If precedent can help, and we think it will, British Columbia's new governor-designate will be beginning his tour of duty under favorable omens.

General Simonds' Retirement

IN accordance with a brief official announcement of intention some months earlier, Lieutenant-General G. G. Simonds, chief of the Canadian general staff, was retired from the Canadian army on August 31. The words "was retired" are used because there is nothing to suggest that this abrupt termination of a brilliant military career at the singularly early age of 52 was Gen. Simonds' choice. To put it bluntly, a commander ranked by Field Marshal Montgomery as one of the world's ten most brilliant generals was sacked; and the reasons for his removal have caused wide conjecture not only in Canada but also in the United Kingdom, where Simonds recently attended the chief of the imperial general staff's annual conference.

Age cannot have anything to do with the case because Simonds, in the pink of physical condition, has been succeeded by a soldier five years older than himself, Major-General H. D. Graham. The ostensible reason for his retirement as announced at Ottawa is that he had completed the normal tour of four years in office, but that does not hold water because in the past there has been no "normal tour" for a Canadian chief of staff.

The real reason is more likely to be that Simonds, a protégé of Montgomery, was too frank and outspoken for the Canadian government, especially regarding national service, a subject on which the government is peculiarly sensitive. In the House of Commons at Ottawa Simonds was attacked for daring to express views on conscription, and also for creating a Canadian guards regiment patterned on the British Brigade of Guards. While he may have stepped over the line in voicing opinions on the issue of conscription, which is one for decision by the government and Parliament, that seems slender cause for depriving the country of the services of so outstanding a general.

Perhaps the most cutting comment on the action of the Dominion government is contained in The Times, London, a journal not given to criticism of the manner in which other governments handle their domestic affairs. Discussing rumors that Gen. Simonds might succeed Lord Montgomery as deputy chief of NATO forces in Europe and the difficulties in the way of such an appointment, The Times concludes: "Many will hope that such difficulties will not rule out the appointment to Gen. Simonds to some post appropriate to his experience and ability if the Canadian Army now has nothing more to offer him."

School Enrollment Up

A PRACTICAL demonstration of the need for adequate classroom and other school accommodation was furnished on Tuesday when almost 17,000 students were enrolled in Victoria district schools for the beginning of the new term. In view of a roster of some 10,000 students a few years ago, the influx to the area of families with children of lower- and senior school ages sufficient to almost double that registration has been phenomenal. The result, some 17,000 children who must be taught, is perhaps the most conclusive argument against a definite and continued building program; not for the theoretical thousands of children who may or may not be here in 20 years time, but those who are here now and whose education must in no manner be suspended.

The actual increase in student enrollment in this district is reported at 1,700 more than last year at the equivalent time; and that is not the whole of the count, because late holidays, and other causes (including some communicable children's diseases) generally keep the roster below par until well on into the autumn. The pressure on classroom accommodation has already been indicated, together with the makeshiftes necessary to insure tuition for all of the children. The swing-shift has had to be resorted to at several points; with corresponding inconvenience for the teachers and the parents of those children affected. But at least it is something to know that no child is being left outside of school doors.

On the basis of the current showing school authorities will be justified in revising their plans for future construction, particularly on the level of what must be done without fail. The fill pieces and embellishments can come afterwards, but solid classrooms sufficient to take care of at least 20,000 students in this area within the space of the next three years would appear to be essential. There are some who may argue that this extension may be needed to abolish the swing-shift system, which nobody likes; but the present roster without increment is about 17,000 students. It is the rate of increase per year that furnishes the test.

Looking even three years ahead, there is very little if any indication that today's trend will be altered. It seems almost certain that the 17,000 enrollment will spread to 20,000, and that in turn to 25,000 in the space of a very few years. If the existing school plant is not enlarged at least in its inescapable essentials a critical problem would arise. The common sense thing to do is to prepare for the ascertained rate of increase and to build for that on the principle of needs first, and non-essentials afterwards as funds may permit.

Interpreting the News

Disarmament Danger

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THE United States and Britain are doing something that many of their leaders have warned against—talking about further curtailment of defence programs while the effort to weigh Communism's latest policies is still going on.

Simultaneous revelations of planned defence cuts in Washington and London came coincidentally with a growing feeling that the "Geneva spirit" is a temporary and perhaps even a dangerous thing.

Sir Anthony Eden, adopting the position that rising inflation and other economic difficulties require Britain to do something about her defence burden, maintains that whatever is done will not be permitted to interfere with Britain's contribution to Western military strength through the North Atlantic Treaty. Britain's military leaders, on the other hand, contend that whatever is done will weaken the "back area" of her NATO forces and so have its effect.

There is a strong possibility that the communist bloc is attempting to substitute a long-term program of neutralization and political infiltration for its postwar policy of diplomacy backed by the threat of force.

There is a strong possibility that the United States and Britain can conduct an economic and social struggle better if relieved of some defence burdens.

These new defence cuts, however, are being suggested against a background of belief in some quarters that the Communists are actually renouncing war. That is to judge the "Geneva spirit" in a fashion not warranted by sober consideration of the history and objectives either of Russia or the Communist movement.

Reports From Ottawa

THE St. Laurent philosophy of government has never, so far as I know, been stated comprehensively and fully. Instead, it has been disclosed in bits and pieces. In the last fortnight the prime minister has stated some views which help fill the gaps for those trying to piece together a composite picture of just what Louis St. Laurent thinks of the task the people have entrusted to him.

He covered unity and the functions of an MP in his speech at St. Eloi, Que., honoring Mackenzie King's minister of justice and chief lieutenant, Ernest Lapointe.

On unity: "The ideal would be a sufficient knowledge of both languages so that each group would not only understand the words but also the thinking of the other group. . . In short, the two main components of our Canadian nation must make every effort to foster unity and to work together to build up our country."

"This united effort presupposes the equality of all Canadian citizens . . . true equality in every field of national activity. Canada will be great . . . only if she presents a united front. . ."

On the functions of an MP: "The political man, the member of Parliament, is first of all the representative of his electors. He speaks on behalf of his constituents. His mandate comes from the people, and he must not betray them."

"However, a member of Parliament must also discharge another function . . . Since he is in a better position than anyone else to become acquainted with and to analyze all the problems of the state, and inasmuch as he is generally more gifted than the average, it behooves him to show leadership and to advocate progressive ideas which he will try to impress upon his constituents and the nation at large."

"A member of Parliament fulfils his duty, that of protecting the interests of the people, when he takes the initiative instead of waiting until those interests are threatened."

Before the Canadian Bar Association in Ottawa, on the centralization of power in his government's hands: "There is a general tendency on the part of the citizens to expect more and more of their governments, and particularly of the central government. . . If those demands are to be met it naturally follows that the government has to be endowed with the necessary powers and financial means to make that possible."

"There are those who feel . . . that it is the duty of a government to prevent or curb any tendency toward centralization of power and the extension of the activities of the administration into new fields. . ."

"However, there seems to be an increasing body of opinion that feels that the state should become more directly involved in assuring the welfare of its individual citizens. When . . . (it) represents the will of a majority of the population the governments, if they are to remain democratic governments, have to take practical steps within the bounds of the constitution to carry out that will."

These are fair and lucid statements, and deserve study—of their implications as well as their words—by all who look askance at Ottawa's growing powers, or who question the worth of their local MP, or who wonder if unity is anything more than a political catchword.

Disarmament Question for UN

By W. N. EWER, from London

THE United Nations sub-committee on disarmament, meeting again in New York after three months' recess, has far more to think about and discuss than when it adjourned at the end of May.

For in the meanwhile there has been the "summit" four-power meeting in Geneva. And one item of the "directive" given at the end by the four heads of governments to their foreign ministers was to "instruct their representatives in the sub-committee . . . to take account in their work of the views and proposals advanced . . . at this conference."

The fifth member of the sub-committee—Canada—was not represented at Geneva. But the Canadian government certainly has no objection to "taking account" of the views expressed there.

When the sub-committee adjourned, it had before it the Soviet proposal which had just been tabled by Mr. Malik. And that naturally remains on the agenda.

So the sub-committee has in front of it:

1. The Soviet proposal of May 20 and Marshal Bulganin's restatement of it at Geneva.

2. President Eisenhower's proposal for aerial inspection and exchanges of "blue prints" as developed and modified since. It has become the new American plan—frequently referred to as the "Stassen Plan."

3. M. Faure's proposal for the reduction and limitation of armament budgets and for the allocation of part of the money saved to economic aid for under-developed countries.

4. Sir Anthony Eden's proposal for what he called "limited experiment in the control of armaments in Europe."

Now with due respect to our own prime minister and to Mr. Faure, and both their proposals are important, I think we shall find that the sub-committee will devote most attention to the first two items of the four which I have listed, because they bear most immediately and directly on the two problems with which the United Nations disarmament commission and its predecessors have been preoccupied for years—reduction and control.

What are the prospects of agreement, or of some approach to agreement on these two knotty problems, discussion of which has so far led only to a succession of deadlocks?

I take the question of control first. In this regard, the Soviet plan of May 20 did undoubtedly mark quite a definite advance. It still rejects the idea of complete international supervision on the territory of sovereign states. But it does accept the idea of there being international control posts at key points of a character which would prevent secret warlike concentrations. That idea has been taken up and developed by President Eisenhower and Mr. Stassen, who is his "special adviser" on disarmament questions.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Mr. Harry Truman thinks the answer to juvenile delinquency lies in having the parents stay at home more. But if they did, who would attend these forums on juvenile delinquency?

No figure quite equals in awesome dignity the law enforcement officer solemnly announcing to public and press that he is about to enforce a law.

There are a lot of first-class writers, but a special prize is certainly due to the employee at Twentieth Century-Fox who addressed a note to Darryl Zanuck reading: "Isn't it time we started thinking of what to call our organization in the next century?"

The Chicago Tribune has dropped its crusade for simplified spelling, having found it too complicated.

Audie Murphy is to star in the film of his own life story. This is an unusual step for Hollywood, which rarely finds celebrities who are their own type.

It now seems to be agreed, one gathers from Washington, that a system of complete and effective control of a nation's armaments and armament production would in practice be impossible. But regular inspection of major ports, railway centres, air bases and similar points should be a safeguard against the preparation of any sudden aggression. At the same time the president's plan for mutual rights of aerial inspection and photography would provide safeguards, though not complete ones, against any covert attempts to build up military strength, and especially atomic strength, in excess of any agreed level.

It is too soon to be confident, or even optimistic, for Russian reception of the Eisenhower plan at Geneva was decidedly chilly. There is much in the Soviet proposal which is far from clear. But the gap certainly seems to be far smaller than at any time during the long debates in the various organs of the United Nations. That is true also of the question of the reduction of armed strength. One of the most important features of the Soviet plan is its proposal that the basis for reduction shall be the fixing of a definite level for the armed man-power of five great powers. The United States, the Soviet Union and China would have between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 men each; Britain and France 650,000 each.

Rather curiously this has been presented and publicized as a "new" Soviet plan. But in fact its value lies precisely in the fact that it is nothing of the kind. It is the Russian acceptance of the proposals made long since by the Western powers, and an abandonment of the Soviet counter-proposal—that every country shall reduce its armed strength by one-third or some other agreed percentage. The Soviet insistence on this and the Soviet refusal to consider the fixing of specified man-power ceilings, have been one of the chief causes of deadlock for many years.

So the change is of very first importance. It seems to imply that for the first time there is agreement in principle on the method to be adopted in reaching agreement on a reduction of the military potential, though it should be noted that there must also be consideration of "qualitative" limitations as well. The number of aircraft possessed by any one power is today probably more important than the number of infantry divisions.

All this gives one a feeling of hope that the sub-committee may be able to report some progress before the four foreign ministers meet again in Geneva at the end of October. But one cannot feel too confident. There may be one insuperable obstacle to any progress at all.

It is this. The Soviet proposal of May 20 seemed to make its practical suggestions on disarmament problems conditional on the acceptance by the Western powers of a number of political conditions. These include a demand for the withdrawal of all forces from Germany, the "liquidation" of military bases in foreign countries and the dissolution of military alliances—in other words the dismantling of the whole NATO defence system.

If the Russians adhere to this, then deadlock is certain. Not only are these demands quite unacceptable to the Western powers, they obviously raise questions which are outside the sub-committee's terms of reference, and which it is not competent even to discuss. On the other hand Marshal Bulganin, restating the May 20 proposals during the Geneva conference, made no reference at all to these political conditions. Which may mean that the Soviet government is now prepared to drop them, or to reserve them for discussion by the foreign ministers.

This seems to me the crucial question. If these Soviet demands are quietly forgotten for the moment, then the sub-committee should have a good chance of making some real progress—especially on the question of "control." On the other hand if they are pressed and insisted on, there will be little or nothing that it can do until after the foreign ministers have met.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

FOR the past several months my wife has taken a pencil and made a discreet little scribble of her first initial inside the cover of every paperback she reads.

This helps her solve the problem that must be a troublesome one for all readers of thrillers. For surely there can be nothing more infuriating than to get settled down and all relaxed with a paperback and, after having read about 20 pages, make the discovery that you have read the darn thing before, maybe twice.

Possibly the biggest and busiest circulating library in the world is the paperback circuit. You take a bunch of half a dozen or a dozen paperbacks from your home, used, and visit a friend; and pick up in return roughly an equal number of hers to take home. Paperbacks are on the go all over the country. They pile up on shelves. They are stacked in closets. Finally they get into baskets or cartons and are given away to the cleaning woman or the visiting parson or sent to the handiest hospital. But mostly they pass from hand to hand amongst relatives and friends.

And as sure as fate, you sooner or later get back the ones you got rid of the year before last. Though she has only been marking hers for eight or ten months, my wife has already got back half a dozen from the most surprising sources, from people she didn't even know knew the person to whom she passed them in the first place.

Not being a paperback reader, having read only two in my life about three years apart, and finding they were the same ones, it appears to me that there are not any new paperbacks. I admit I see large stacks of them in all the drug stores, book shops, groceries and fancy goods shops, and certainly I have seen people buying them, or at least fumbling through them. But they are all fresh supplies of old ones, I suppose, because nobody on that part of the paperback circuit with which I am in contact ever bought a new one. The only place you can find new ones is among the old ones somebody else has read.

And the best thing to do is take a pencil and scribble a little hieroglyphic inside the cover, and send it on its way, knowing that it is bound to return. So you'll recognize it.

Letters to the Editor

Buckshot Tactics

This Buttle lake business is bringing enlightening letters, particularly the report that the lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia is suing the government for stealing a million-dollar mountain.

Looks as though we might do likewise here, for with that report comes the B.C. news that the Power Commission is calling tenders for a multimillion-dollar deal on lumber at Buttle lake, stolen from the public who are the perpetual owners of Strathcona park.

One correspondent calls this "disposal of our island's God-given loveliness and grandeur" a blasphemy. (Strong words for the Secreter to swallow!) Another suggests a plebiscite, and this would seem fair to everyone except by the B.C. government, which is obviously bent on "selling us down the river" in their sorry record of similar deals.

The additional fact that the spending of huge sums of public money on "difficult" damming schemes such as this, may be outdated in this scientific age, seems to be something beyond the understanding or consideration of our self-contented rulers.

A pity we are not putting to use the time-honored western method of settling disputes, by meeting the first "feller" of a lumber baron who touches a tree on the lake shore and rickling him with a blast of buckshot or some similar reminder of the temper of an enraged and sorely tried people. Perhaps we must merely be satisfied by suing Premier Bennett for a million.

CLARENCE S. GOODE, FRSA.
3190 Ripon road,
Victoria, B.C.

Test Case

It is a good thing to see the letters you have been publishing in your issues lately about the government's contemplated action involving Buttle lake in Strathcona park, logging operations and attendant destruction. There are many angles from which one may write on this matter, but may I take your valuable space to urge people to write to the premier of B.C., Mr. Sommers of the Lands and Forests Department, and local members concerning this issue. Let us "tell it where it will count" so our leaders know how we feel. It would appear that unless we, the people, do become vocal and make our protests heard, the present policy will go through.

This project seems to be to be a test case re the laws governing the parks for the people. Is the whole spirit of law and justice being tampered with? Let's make ourselves really heard now by writing. The law was passed in 1911 which gave this park to the people "in perpetuity."

(Mrs.) H. W. S. SOULSBY,
109 St. Lawrence street,
Victoria, B.C.

At What Cost?

It is a matter of great concern to the people of British Columbia that there be light and power in abundance, at least sufficient to meet the growing demand of an expanding economy. It appears to me to be equally true that the citizens of our province are vitally concerned and interested in the preservation of their natural inheritance which belongs as much to posterity as it does to the present generation.

Strathcona park is our national heritage, made so by our forefathers, to have and hold in perpetuity. It is irreplaceable and indispensable as it is desirable. If we permit our government to commit devastation of this memorial we assist it in its exploitation of beauty, the chief concern of vandalism. Like Esau we should permit them to sell our birthright for a mess of pottage.

No doubt the timber and power would pay handsome dividends and secure some additional reserve of electricity, but at what sacrifice? There would be some temporal advantages, perhaps short-lived in this competitive age of substitutes and research, but at the same time the splendor and beauty and solitude of nature would be forfeited. Our abiding recreational heritage would be gone with the wind.

Power may generate light but if our sight is diminished and our foresight fail then perception and appreciation will suffer. Let there be light but even more so let there be enlightenment. Let there be power to care for growing industry but let us remember there is an hour for everything, both material and spiritual, the concrete and the abstract.

"A scene of beauty as a joy forever,"
H. FISHER.

Ward I. Medical,
Veteran's Hospital,
Victoria, B.C.

Need for Power

None of the many writers in defence of Buttle lake being kept as a beauty spot has shown awareness of the urgent need for increased electric power for all present needs as well as for future development.

Long, careful study and hearings by experts were given before the decision was reached, and no one of these writers of articles and letters has shown realization that industrial development, which cannot be without sufficient electric power, means gainful livelihood for men with families, for young people leaving school and college, and for new comers to the province and Canada. Also that B.C.—Canada, in fact, depends on selling internationally as well as domestically, and on money invested in B.C. as throughout Canada.

(Mrs.) ALICE COLCLOUGH,
1263 Richardson street,
Victoria, B.C.

Public Rights

May I add my appeal to that of numerous others who are urging the provincial government to leave Buttle lake and Strathcona park as is for the enjoyment of the people of this province.

Since the park was set aside in perpetuity for the public, only the voice of the public have the right, from a moral standpoint, to alter that dictum.

The present Social Credit government has a splendid record of achievement to its credit since taking office, and it would

Liquor Offence Cases Remanded until Friday

Three men charged with bootlegging and a fourth charged with keeping liquor for sale yesterday were remanded without plea until Friday in city court.

Harold C. Twigg, 3475 Seymour, was charged with keeping rye whiskey and beer for sale. Jan Palak, 1042 Hillside, and Stanley Tomczyk, 1203 Hillside were charged with selling beer. Roy E. Fisher, 3099 Albany, was charged with selling rye whiskey.

James L. Freeson, 715 Cook, was fined $15 and ordered to repay $465.50 illegally obtained as benefits from the Unemployment Insurance Commission. Commission counsel A. C. D. King said Freeson got the money from Jan. 1 to June 11 by falsely stating he was unemployed. It was found he was self-employed but actually had made little profit during that time.

The Commission agreed to a minimum fine and $25 monthly installments for repayment.

Sounding of a false alarm cost William E. Adamson $50. He was sentenced yesterday for an alarm he turned in Saturday afternoon.

Because he is a visitor from Edmonton, Robert W. Lamb kept his driver's licence after pleading guilty to careless driving. He went through a traffic light last Sunday at Bay and Douglas, causing a collision. He was fined $35.

Norman F. Johnson, 19, RCN, was fined $15 for being in pos-

Arthur LeBrun, Victoria, was fined $30 for driving without a current driver's licence.

Hunter Fined, Forfeits Rifle, For Game Offences

DUNCAN—James L. Dawley, Koksilah, was fined a total of $40 and had his .22 calibre rifle confiscated when charged with not having a firearms licence and for carrying a loaded gun in a vehicle.

Game warden Robert Sinclair said the dangerous practice of carrying a loaded gun in a car was the first discovered this year.

A "ton of gold" award has been won by H. Standen of Cowichan Station for the performance of his Jersey cow, Glenarily Volunteer Daphne—202382. In 1,461 days she produced 2,026 pounds of fat.

To qualify for this award a cow must produce at least 2,000 pounds of fat in four consecutive years.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Bob Fox, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fox, Sidney, has joined the list of those who have swum the full width of Shawnigan lake.

Accompanied by his father in a rowboat he covered the distance from the Mountain View

Auto Court to the George Pringle Memorial Camp in 50 minutes.

Hospital Site Talks Set

NANAIMO—A meeting will be held shortly between Provincial Secretary Wesley Black and representatives of the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce to discuss possible sites in the Nanaimo area for the government's proposed 1,500-bed mental hospital.

Mr. Black was unable to meet chamber representatives yesterday as planned.

Bruce Meikle, member of the chamber, said he had been assured that no site has yet been decided on and that no action would be taken until after Nanaimo sites had been considered.

PORT ALBERNI—Four motorists who drove over fire hoses last Saturday while firemen quelled a small brush fire on North Park drive, appeared before Magistrate T. M. Patterson this week. All were fined for the offence.

LADYSMITH—Contract date for completion of Ladysmith's new 10-room elementary school with activity room, being constructed at 4th avenue and French street, is Oct. 15.

Date was announced by R. W. Ovenden, school board secretary, following consultation with architect T. B. McArray, of Nanaimo.

The trustees expect to transfer, on Oct. 15, some 300 elementary school pupils from Market Square school to the new building. Until then the pupils will carry on with swing shifts at the Market Square school from Sept. 6.

Contract price of the new school is $187,000, plus some $20,000 for equipment.

Elementary school principal W. C. Jones has advised the board there will be an assembly at the Market Square school Sept. 6, for registration and grouping of pupils as follows: 8:30 a.m., grades 1, 2 and 3; at 9:30 a.m., grades 4, 5 and 6.

ALBERNI—A memorial service will be held today at 7:30 p.m. for Rev. S. V. H. Redman in St. Andrew's United church where he had been minister since June, 1954. Mr. Redman died last week in Shaughnessy hospital, Vancouver.

Rev. Peter Kelly, chairman of the United Church Presbytery, will be in charge of the service.

Born in England 58 years ago, Mr. Redman had lived in British Columbia since 1918. He joined the ministry in Vancouver following service overseas in the First World War. He came to this district from Victoria and had also

Best of Year at Saltair

Claimed by people of Saltair to be the biggest spring salmon taken in those waters this year, here is the 41½-pounder landed by Win Elford, right, and companion George Langdon Monday. They were fishing with 150 feet of line, six ounces of weight and a squid lure. Mr. Elford had no gaff and lifted the big fellow with his fingers in its gills. Mr. Elford has entered the fish in The Daily Colonist's "King Fisherman" contest.

Brannan Lake Boys Charged

NANAIMO—Four juveniles from Brannan Lake school appeared before juvenile court judge Lionel Beevor-Potts here yesterday charged with theft of clothing from Nelson's Imperial Laundry, Nanaimo, and attempting to break and enter Nanaimo Home Service.

The offences are alleged to have taken place Aug. 27. The youths were remanded without plea till Sept. 14.

Driving a car while impaired will cost a Greek seaman three months' wages. Antinous Prin-tizis, of the ship Master Nicos, loading lumber here, was fined $150 and $550 costs by Magistrate Beevor-Potts.

Police said, Printizis was found sitting in a car with an Indian, on the wrong side of the road. The car was heavily dented on one side and both men had multiple cuts. Neither of them could give a coherent account of what had happened. A further charge of driving without a driver's licence added another $25 and $3 costs to the total.

Arthur Joseph Gornel of Extension pleaded guilty of impaired driving and was fined $150 and $550 costs in addition to having his driver's licence suspended for six months.

Drought Dries Up Source Of Scotland's Elixir of Life

GLASGOW (AP)—Thorium, zinnwaldite, glaucophane and biotite, plus amphibole, pyroxene, uranium, a dash of sphene—and you're off to a running start on a batch of Scotch whisky.

Trouble is, a spokesman for the Scotch Whisky Association says, these minerals are found in just the right amounts only in brooks which run through the red granite formations of the Scottish Highlands.

And a drought has dried up the brooks, forcing the distill-

The distilleries had planned to complete their 1955-56 output by early next spring. The way things look now, there may be a delay of months.

Mr. Branch Went Out on a Limb for Gisele

WINNIPEG (CP)—An Alabama lawyer who says he has pursued the heart of radio and television star Gisele MacKenzie since he fell in love with her on television four months ago will do so no more.

Edward Gachet Branch of Montgomery, Alabama, who has traveled thousands of miles following Gisele and written her daily love letters, said in an interview he had decided to quit the chase because he was told he was disturbing her.

"And I would rather die than hurt Miss MacKenzie," drawled polite Mr. Branch.

The 33-year-old southerner, who previously followed Gisele to New York and Las Vegas, followed the singing star to Winnipeg Monday.

He visited her home twice but failed to see her. Tuesday morning, he left a large bouquet of flowers.

SOME OTHER GUY

Gisele's father, concerned over Mr. Branch's attention, notified city detectives.

Tuesday afternoon, detectives told Mr. Branch at his hotel Gisele did not care to see him and suggested he not call on her again.

"Man if I had been told before I was annoying Miss MacKenzie, I certainly wouldn't have followed her," he said. "I simply love her too much to want to hurt her in any way."

A reporter asked if he knew she asked for police protection when she was starring at the Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas.

"Ah sure didn't," he replied. "Some fellow came up to me and said Miss MacKenzie didn't want me bothering her. I thought he was just some other fellow in love with her like I was."

Mr. Branch, who said he had been married four times, first met Gisele at the Flamingo Hotel when he invited her and two friends for a drink.

GISELE REFUSES COMMENT

"I was terribly excited—I hardly had a chance to talk to her," he said.

Later, he walked up to her table once and asked if she would have time for "your hello."

"She turned and said 'hello,' she was never rude or impolite."

Mr. Branch said he would like to sit down and talk to Gisele and tell her how deeply he is in love with her but he will not follow her any more because it might upset her.

He carries a record player. Gisele's records and a suitcase full of her pictures. Looking at one, he said:

"Isn't she gorgeous, simply gorgeous. She's the most beautiful."

Gisele said before leaving Wed-

Frankie's Ex-Wife

Another Sinatra Facing Cameras

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—An act and see how the picture other Sinatra has entered the turns out. At any rate, I won't acting business. This time it's be able to do much; raising Nancy, former wife of famous Frank, children is a career in itself.

She hinted that there may be more Sinatras in show business. But not soon.

"Nancy has been talking about being a singer or an actress," she said. "She seems to her first fling at acting and she's having herself a ball."

But producer William Perlberg reported that she is doing excellently.

"The gal is a real comer," said Perlberg, a long time friend. "She has a way of throwing away lines that is sensational."

Nancy was happy to hear such praise.

"I've never done any acting before," she said. "I never even wanted to be an actress when I was a girl. As soon as I got out of school I went back to work in an office. I never did any other kind of work. I got married and started having children; there wasn't time for anything else."

"Now the kids are growing up—Nancy is 15, Frankie is 11 and Christina 7. I felt I needed something to keep me busy."

"As to the future, I'll have to wait and see."

SLOWS DOWN PLAY: More and more clubs are falling into honor system of handicapping as recommended by the Canadian Golf Association.

It has been used successfully for some time at Royal Colwood and as in its formative stage at the Victoria Club.

The individual calculates his own handicap by taking the low score in an 18-hole round, and it depends entirely for its success upon players marking up all their scores. To the golfer who plays infrequently it is not a great deal of help, while those who do not record their scores at all, or irregularly, it is useless.

Properly worked the system should do away altogether with the necessity for a handicap committee, but it also has a number of objectionable features.

One of these is that to be worked properly everyone has to hole out at every hole.

This slows down the course, makes the playing of 18 holes more or less an all-day undertaking.

It seems to me that fewer and fewer golfers are now willing to expose themselves to the fatigue of 36 holes in one day, and indeed with the days drawing shorter it almost becomes an impossibility.

On most of the local courses one has to allow four hours to the round if the course happens to be at all busy.

A handicap system that entails the holding out of every putt further slows down the pace and one doubts whether its efficiency is worth the candle.

DOUBLE ACE RECORD TOPPED: The feat of doing two holes in one in a single round of a major tournament is probably a record. It was done last week in the $20,000 Open at Weathersfield, Conn., by an amateur, Bill Whedon of Farmington, Conn.

Whedon holed out in one at the 168-yard-long fifth hole and the 208-yard ninth hole in the first round.

The only similar incident I can recall happened in 1933 in the 36-hole final of the Irish Open Championship at Newcastle, County Down.

Eric Fiddian, a British Walker Cup player from Stourbridge, England, did the trick against a fellow Walker Cupper, Jack McLean of Scotland.

But whereas Whedon scored his two aces in one round, Fiddian's feat was in a 36-hole final, and the aces were scored one in each round. As a matter of interest, the double ace feat did Fiddian no good, for McLean beat him, 3 and 2.

HAROLD SCORES DEUCE: The championship of the Royal Colwood club takes a lot of winning with so many of the local cranks members of the club.

The first round results brought one surprise in the defeat of the holder, George Andrews. He was beaten 4 and 3 by Harold Lineham, another past holder of the championship.

Andrews was the victim of some pretty sharp shooting by his opponent, Harold scored deuces at the seventh, 11th and 15th holes, and in winning all of them that was just about the measure of his superiority.

All the other leading contenders survived and the second round this week should produce some more keen matches.

Lineham now meets Bill McColl, who probably ranks as joint favorite with Laurie Kerr, who is to meet Mike Bartkow. Vic Painter opposes Ted Colgate, while Jimmy Robertson meets George Sparling.

TOURNAMENT SEASON ENDING: The last big Open tournament of the season, the Matson Memorial Trophy, will be played at Victoria Sunday. While the Colwood top men may be absent owing to the clashing of their own championship, a good turnout is expected for this handicap event.

It seems rather a pity that with several weeks of potentially fine golfing weather still ahead of us, the competitive schedule should end so abruptly.

The next big item on the card, so far as the district is concerned, is the Colonial Christmas Tree tournament. Plans for this competition, inaugurated last Christmas, will be discussed Sunday by members of the Victoria Association following the Matson Trophy play at Oak Bay.

Meximite, in order to keep the interest going in golf, and there's no doubt that this has been an exceptionally good year for active participation, it might be a good idea to have a return match between Colwood and The Rest. When this challenge game was played earlier in the year, The Rest just managed to prevail, but it was a close thing, and with Colwood at full strength they might be just capable of turning the tables.

A match of this nature would not necessarily clash with the weekly buttons games, due to resume on Sunday week.

CREDIT MEN PLAY GOLF: The annual tournament of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, presided over by Fred Walton, is to be played at Uplands on Thursday, Sept. 22. Play starts at 1 p.m. Fred tells me that he has the usual fine assortment of prizes for successful competitors.

Harry Changes Tune; Seeks Pact with NFL

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (UPI)—Harry Sonshine, radiating goodwill and friendliness, plumped Wednesday for peace with the U.S. National Football League, a football commissioner for all Canada and rule changes to provide unlimited interference.

"The general manager of Toronto Argonauts, who caused great consternation and warlike cries in the NFL by raiding top talent, talked with newspaper and radio men at a luncheon arranged by Montreal Alouettes, no less.

It was all hearts and flowers, Sonshine beamed up on, Vic Obeck, Al's vice-president, genially answered questions tossed by his audience, and rattled along so smoothly under his own steam he forgot to eat his pie.

"We want peace with the NFL provided we get equal rights in such as draft, waivers and trading of players," said Sonshine.

"But we don't want to be considered in the nature of a Mexican League," he added, with implied reference to the luring of U.S. football players south by the outlaw circuit a few years ago.

"President Henderson of the Detroit Lions told me he will sponsor a move for equal draft.

"At the same time we should enforce our rights between east and west in Canada. They are too narrow now."

"I would like to see a commissioner for all Canada and I don't think we will get any place until we have one. Maybe that's a year or two away, yet but it's got to come. The NFL is financially sounder than our league."

UNLIMITED INTERFERENCE: Sonshine said he would like to see unlimited interference introduced in the Canadian game by next season.

"I think our rule-book should be rewritten. I don't think our officials can fairly call the 10-yard interference rule. I don't mean we should go ahead and adopt American rules entirely. You'll find anyway that about 95 per cent of the blocking now is within the 10 yards."

Sonshine mentioned that since he was a player there had been cries of "Don't change our game." But the interference rule had moved progressively from one to three to five yards and on to 10, "and we've got to keep up with trends and progress." There is room for improvement also "because our game is getting too complicated for the officials."

About the Grey Cup game: "It belongs where it earns the most. It's a great money-earner for lots of leagues and teams and it has helped the west in the past."

SCOTS SET PRACTICE: Canadian Scottish division II soccer club will hold a workout for all last year's members and others interested in trying out for the team at 6:30 tonight at S. J. Willis Junior High school.

Wynn Blanks Orioles as Indians Retain Lead; Ford in One-Hitter

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cleveland's Early Wynn hung up his 20th major league victory as the Indians retained their half of the American League lead by thumping Baltimore 6-0 Wednesday night while the other three contenders maintained the pace.

Second place New York slipped past Kansas City 2-1 behind Whitey Ford's one-hitter with the winning run forced home by a walk in the ninth inning.

Chicago's White Sox, 1 1/2 games back, held third with a 4-3 squeaker at Washington, and Boston made it six straight by whipping Detroit 7-4.

Wynn gave up five hits and worked with runners on base in all but two innings, but he breezed in as Larry Doby homered twice and the Tribe turned in four double plays. The veteran right-hander, 36, for the season, now has beaten the Orioles four times this year, three of them shutouts.

NATS SCARE SOX
The Indians scored two off left-hander Nels Pennington in the first inning. Then Doby lived it with a solo homer in the fifth and a three-run shot in the ninth.

Chicago led all the way at Washington, but had a ninth-inning scare when the Senators scored twice. Millard Howell relieved starter Jack Harshman with one away in the ninth after a walk and two singles had scored a run. Clint Courtney lined a run-scoring single off Howell, but Jim Busby retrieved the drive and made a clothesline peg to third to nip the potential tying run for the second out.

Eddie Yost flied to Bushy to end it as Harshman picked up his 10th victory. He allowed only three hits until the ninth.

TOSSES WILD PITCH
It was the second straight one-hitter for Ford, who last week held Washington to a lone safety. Jim Fingers' ground rule double with two-out in the seventh was the AS only hit.

The blow followed one of Ford's six walks and the southpaw then used an intentional pass to load the bases. But Whitey next uncorked a wild pitch and the AS scored their run.

Arnie Portocarrero, the loser, didn't give the Yanks a hit until the fifth when one-out Mickey Mantle blooped a single to center.

It was Ford's 17th victory of the year, and his third one-hitter.

Frank Sullivan tossed a five-hitter at the Tigers for his 17th triumph, while the Red Sox belted home six runs in the first three frames off Jim Bunning and Paul Foytack. Elmer Kinder came on in relief.

Are you suffering from the sharp, stabbing misery of rheumatic pain? Do you long for relief as Mr. William Atwell of 1634 Ardbee Ave., Toronto did? Then listen to his encouraging message: "For over 10 years, my job as a milkman kept me outdoors all kinds of bad weather. I suffered from sharp, muscular rheumatic pain in my arms and legs. Sometimes I could hardly lift my arm because of very severe attacks of rheumatic pain. I was tired and decided to try them. I am thankful to say they gave me quick, satisfactory relief." # Conscience Pricks Adviser To Would-Be Dairymen

LAKE LOUISE, Aug. 28.—The National Dairy Council was told that the conscience of the dairy industry in Canada and the United States is being pricked by the fact that only 25 students of agriculture in the United States are taking courses in dairy farming.

Dr. H. R. Thompson, of the University of Alberta, told the council that the university was in a position to offer a course in dairy farming, but that the dairy industry in Canada and the United States is being pricked by the fact that only 25 students of agriculture in the United States are taking courses in dairy farming.

Shortage of Logs Looms If Woods Stay Closed

A prolonged closure of Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland forests would create a shortage of logs, according to the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

The closure resulted in more than $500,000 a week in wages during the past few days, according to the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

The forestry department reported the new fire since the day in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island.

No Matter What—Prices Will Rise

BY HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

When prices rise, it is not because of a sudden increase in demand, but because of a sudden increase in the cost of production. This is the case with most commodities, and it is the case with the price of money.

Troops Take Over In Turk Cities Following Rioting

ISTANBUL (AP)—The Turkish government re-imposed martial law on Istanbul and Izmir Wednesday night and called Parliament into special session in the wake of anti-Greek riots.

Martial law was lifted for about 12 hours in Istanbul and Izmir, Turkey's two largest cities, during the day. But today it was restored and extended to Ankara, the capital.

Premier Adnan Menderes announced the intention after an emergency session of his cabinet, which also summoned Parliament to a special session opening next Monday.

The outbreaks followed the dragging dispute over the future of Cyprus. British-held island bastion in the Mediterranean. The Greeks want Cyprus, which has a big majority of Greek-descended residents. Turkey, which lost Cyprus to Britain in 1914, says it must get the island back if Britain ever quits it. British-Greek-Turkish talks in London on the issue have ended in disagreement.

Casualties in Tuesday night's violence in Istanbul and Izmir were put unofficially at more than 300. Greek-owned property was damaged to the extent of millions of dollars. Istanbul police said 2,057 persons had been arrested, about half suspected of looting, arson and other violence.

U.S. Dock Strike Threatens Canada

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) closed the port of New York Wednesday in a quarrel with a bi-state waterfront control commission.

Within a few hours after the walkout started, shippers obtained a state supreme court order directing the strikers to return to work.

The restraining order drew no immediate reaction from the ILA. "This is spreading very rapidly," said ILA president William Bradley. "If something isn't done by Monday, we'll have the whole coast tied up."

Bradley said he had been told longshoremen in Quebec, Montreal, Halifax, and St. John's, Nfld., would meet today and that they would probably join in the work stoppage.

But at Montreal Donat Bibault, Canadian vice-president of the ILA said there is no danger of a tie-up in Canadian ports although vessels diverted from strikebound ports in the United States would not be handled. He said Canadian longshoremen will respect their agreement with the Canadian Shipping Federation.

The strike was the climax to months of turmoil along the 350 miles of New York waterfront. The ILA said it was trying to "obliterate" the New

Canada Offers India Reactor

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Wednesday night Canada has offered to provide India with an experimental atomic energy reactor under the terms of the Colombo Plan.

He said in an interview that the reactor offered to India would be similar in design to the famed NRX atomic pile which has been in operation at Canada's Chalk River, Ont., since 1947.

Males Swing Away ...

Leggy 'Glamazons' Stuff Dreams Made Of

WASHINGTON (UP)—An expert stuck his chin way out last night and said American men no longer dream about cute little blondes with no brains.

The current male ideal, he reported, is the "glamazon." A tall, statuesque girl with a lot of classic beauty and at least a smattering of intelligence.

Dr. W. M. Krogman hastened to say he has nothing personal against girls who are short, blonde or stupid. He said he was merely passing along some observations he has made as an anthropologist.

Krogman, University of Pennsylvania professor and nationally known authority in his field, expressed his opinions to reporters after reading a technical paper to a meeting of physical anthropologists here.

As a case in point, Krogman cited the Miss America contest in Atlantic City. It is a matter of record, he said, that the choice of the judges in recent years has been a tall, snappy beauty who has demonstrated some kind of talent.

It was different in the old days. Twenty years or so ago, said Krogman, it was almost invariably "a petite little blonde who may or may not have had any brains."

"The ideal of American womanhood has changed radically and for the better," he asserted. "Nowadays it goes beyond mere beauty of face and figure. It includes excellence of mind. We've come back to the Greek ideal that called for a sound mind and a sound body."

Krogman said this marks progress for American women. In his view it means that men more and more value women for their intelligence and ability as well as physical beauty.

Krogman and his fellow-scientists specializing in the study of man are holding a seminar on the role of anthropology in the identification of skeletons and bodies.

Bennett Promise Premier Calls Gibson Foe of Rail Extension

BY RAY BAINES
Daily Colonist Staff Reporter

LILLOOET—The Pacific Great Eastern Railway will be complete from Vancouver to Port St. John by December, 1957.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett gave this "heartening" news to Lillooet constituents in a by-election speech here last night in which he called Gordon Gibson, Liberal candidate and former MLA, the man who "led the attack against the PGE extension."

The premier disclosed, also, that damage in the summer floods had meant a $250,000 bill for B.C.'s railway, only means of communication for Lillooet with the rest of B.C.

"In spite of it," he said, "the railway will make an operating profit of $500,000 this year."

The premier, speaking in support of Social Credit candidate Donald Robinson, a PGE engineer, said when his government took office in 1952 there were more employees in B.C.'s hospital insurance organization than there were men in the charge of the Light Brigade.

"And, oh, what a charge they made," he quipped.

LABORED IN VAIN

He recalled the efforts of the late E. C. Carson, "a man who was almost worshipped in this area," who labored "in vain" for Lillooet as a Conservative member of the Coalition government.

"That is why Lillooet was the most neglected riding in B.C. under the old administration," he declared.

The lively meeting drew 250 persons, peppered with Liberals and small loggers.

The premier and Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers answered a barrage of questions, mostly from three or four members of the audience.

SOCIAL SUPPORTERS

Most of the audience appeared to be Social Credit supporters. Both the premier and Sommers were applauded when they answered questions, as their questioners were booed.

"This is one of the best meetings we've ever had," the premier said after the dust settled.

Farm Hands Shooed

HONG KONG (UPI)—Recent arrivals from Shanghai said last night the Chinese communists are evacuating hundreds of thousands of peasants from the once great port city at gunpoint as a last resort to get them back on the farms.

They said the Reds plan to move 1,000,000 persons from Shanghai and plunk them down in the country. More than 200,000 persons were evacuated during August, it was said.

Two reasons for the program appeared likely: 1. Shanghai is too crowded, leading to widespread hunger and unemployment. 2. Peasants who left their farms for what they thought was the paradise of Shanghai are needed to increase agricultural production.

Rare Cranes About To Run Gauntlet

NEW YORK (AP)—The world's few surviving whooping cranes are about to make their annual 2,500-mile southern flight—with hunters to be encountered along much of the course.

Fearful that scattered shots will wipe out the almost extinct breed, the National Audubon Society issued a plea to gunners Wednesday to spare the tall white birds and their brown offspring.

The whooping cranes will be flying this month from the wilds of northern Canada to their winter home—the Aransas national wildlife refuge near Austwell, Tex.

In the group will be two sets of

Gone About as Fur As She Can Go!

SEATTLE (AP)—Mrs. Peggy Fraser of Juneau, Alaska, created quite a stir Wednesday when she arrived at the Seattle-Tacoma International airport wearing a fur piece.

Not often does a fur piece—even a skunk fur piece—cause any excitement. But this one was alive.

Seamen Risk Lives To Tow Fiery Ship From City Wharf

TWILLINGATE, N.B. (CP)—Two seamen probably saved this northeastern coast fishing town Tuesday night when they leaped aboard the blazing oil-laden motor vessel Winnifred Lee and dropped her anchors in mid-harbor.

The ship caught fire late in the afternoon at the government wharf. She carried 500 drums of oil and gasoline for delivery farther north. Capt. Douglas Manuel ordered the crew aboard his motor vessel Botwood and they attempted to drag the burning ship out of the harbor.

The first line broke. By the time a second was rigged and the ship towed to mid-harbor, oil drums were exploding and flames were shooting high into the air.

JUMP CLEAR

Fearing the Winnifred Lee would break again and drift ashore near other vessels and warehouses, Capt. Manuel had the Botwood hove in near the swirling inferno. Two unidentified seamen jumped aboard.

While drums erupted behind them in blasts of flame, smoke and flying metal, the men calmly dropped

Reds Tap German Hotel Rooms

BONN, Germany (AP)—Members of the West German delegation to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's talks with Soviet leaders are reported to have found their Moscow hotel rooms tapped with hidden microphones.

The delegation's advance guard arrived in the Soviet capital Wednesday after a 62-hour trip by special train from Bonn.

To Speed Jets

'Marilyn' Fuselage Secret Slips Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the defence department's closely guarded secrets—the great importance of the "Marilyn Monroe" design in supersonic fighter planes—slipped out Wednesday.

Fred Hamlin, publisher of Aero Digest, said the new fuselage design is "one of the major aerodynamic breakthroughs in the last decade."

It is believed that the military intends to found an entire aircraft family based on this fuselage, the magazine said. It greatly increases a jet plane's speed without an increase in engine power.

First plane to use the design—also called the coke bottle shape—was the Grumman F-9F Tiger, a carrier-based jet fighter.

Industry sources said that merely slimming down the waist of a fighter plane reduces drag on the aircraft by 15 to 25 per cent, during passage through the extremely turbulent airflow encountered just below, during and just above the speed of sound.

The new design involves slimming the streamlined fuselage or aircraft body down across the wing section and allowing it to return to the conventional shape aft of the wings.

Artistic Relative of Churchill, Eden, Arrested with Wife on Drunk Charge

LONDON (AP)—John Churchill, Sir Winston's nephew and Prime Minister Eden's brother-in-law, was arrested Wednesday night along with his wife on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

During their stay with the police, Mrs. Churchill telephoned the prime minister's wife and reported later, "Lady Eden was terribly upset when I told her what had happened."

Duncan Man Gored Feeding Bull at Fair

Special to the Colonist

A young farm worker was critically injured last night at the Cowichan exhibition grounds when gored by a bull.

Chris Nicholson, 25, had his left chest torn open and suffered internal injuries when he placed a pail of water in front of the bull.

Joe Saville, owner of the prize animal, said the bull struck at the pail, knocked it flying, and threw Nicholson off balance.

"As Nicholson staggered," Mr. Saville related, "the bull gored him."

The bull, Glenagarry Enterprise, was snubbed up fairly closely with two ropes from the nose ring to either side of the stall and a heavy halter rope. Only the fact that the animal was so closely snubbed saved Nicholson from being much more severely injured.

The injured man was rushed to King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan, where emergency treatment was given by three doctors. His condition at midnight was reported critical.

It was the first such serious accident in many years at the exhibition which runs for three days starting today.

The strike was the climax to months of turmoil along the 350 miles of New York waterfront. The ILA said it was trying to "obliterate" the New York-New Jersey waterfront commission, a bi-state port policing agency.

Caught in the middle in the walkout were 170 shipping companies, with whom the ILA signed a no-strike contract last January. They stand to lose $1,000,000 for every day the port is tied up. The employer group, the New York Shipping Association, said it will sue for damages. It called the work stoppage a "flagrant violation" of its contract with the ILA.

A number of ships were stranded in port by the strike. However, the big British liner, also endorsed Gen. Burns' proposals, issued a draft resolution Queen Mary, got away without delay.

Gen. Burns also called for the erection of a "physical barrier" possibly barbed wire—along the border.

Israel Wednesday night agreed to building a physical barrier but did not accept Gen. Burns' proposal for keeping defensive positions and motorized patrols at least 500 metres on either side of the demarcation line. An Egyptian spokesman in Cairo said his government is studying proposals.

The UN Security Council meets today to discuss Gen. Burns' suggestions, included in a report to the UN.

Britain, France and the United States requested the meeting and demanded maintenance of an "unconditional cease-fire."

The Big Three Western powers also endorsed Gen. Burns' proposals and issued a draft resolution to be put to the Security Council.

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Wednesday night Canada has offered to provide India with an experimental atomic energy reactor under the terms of the Colombo Plan.

He said in an interview that the reactor offered to India would be similar in design to the famed NRX atomic pile which has been in operation at Canada's Chalk River, Ont., atomic project since 1947.

Rare Cranes About To Run Gauntlet

NEW YORK (AP)—The world's few surviving whooping cranes are about to make their annual 2,500-mile southern flight—with hunters to be encountered along much of the course.

Fearful that scattered shots will wipe out the almost extinct breed, the National Audubon Society issued a plea to gunners Wednesday to spare the tall white birds and their brown offspring.

The whooping cranes will be flying this month from the wilds of northern Canada to their winter home—the Arkansas national wildlife refuge near Austin, Tex.

In the group will be two sets of young twins, another young one, and some 21 adults.

Their route probably will take them over the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Gone About as Fur As She Can Go!

SEATTLE (AP)—Mrs. Peggy Fraser of Juneau, Alaska, created quite a stir Wednesday when she arrived at the Seattle-Tacoma International airport wearing a fur piece.

Not often does a fur piece—even a skunk fur piece—cause any excitement.

But this one was alive.

Seamen Risk Lives To Tow Fiery Ship From City Wharf

TWILLINGATE, Nfld. (CP)—Two seamen probably saved this northeastern coast fishing town Tuesday night when they leaped aboard the blazing oil-laden motor vessel Winnifred Lee and dropped her anchors in mid-harbor.

The ship caught fire late in the afternoon at the government wharf. She carried 500 drums of oil and gasoline for delivery farther north.

Capt. Douglas Manuel ordered the crew aboard his motor vessel Botwood and they attempted to drag the burning ship out of the harbor.

The first line broke. By the time a second was rigged and the ship towed to mid-harbor, oil drums were exploding and flames were shooting high into the air.

JUMP CLEAR
Fearing the Winnifred Lee would break again and drift ashore near other vessels and warehouses, Capt. Manuel had the Botwood bore in near the swirling inferno. Two unidentified seamen jumped aboard.

While drums erupted behind them in blasts of flame, smoke and flying metal, the men calmly dropped the anchors, holding the burning ship in a relatively harmless spot.

They jumped clear just before the fire reached the hold and wrecked the ship with a final great explosion.

'Marilyn' Fuselage Secret Slips Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the defence department's closely guarded secrets—the great importance of the "Marilyn Monroe" design in supersonic fighter planes—slipped out Wednesday.

Fred Hamlin, publisher of Aero Digest, said the new fuselage design is "one of the major aerodynamic breakthroughs in the last decade."

It is believed that the military intends to found an entire aircraft family based on this fuselage," the magazine said. It greatly increases a jet plane's speed without an increase in engine power.

First plane to use the design—also called the coke bottle shape—was the Grumman F-8F Tiger, a carrier-based jet fighter.

Industry sources said that merely slimming down the waist of a fighter plane reduces drag on the aircraft by 15 to 25 per cent, during passage through the extremely turbulent airflow encountered just below, during and just above the speed of sound.

Artistic Relative of Churchill, Eden, Arrested with Wife on Drunk Charge

LONDON (AP)—John Churchill, Sir Winston's nephew and Prime Minister Eden's brother-in-law, was arrested Wednesday night along with his wife on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

The 46-year-old artist and his wife, also a painter, denied the charge. They were released on bail after half an hour in a police station and were ordered to appear in court this morning.

During their stay with the police, Mrs. Churchill telephoned the prime minister's wife and reported later, "Lady Eden was terribly upset when I told her what had happened."

... From Cute Little Blonde

Males Swing Away ...

Leggy 'Glamazons' Stuff Dreams Made Of

WASHINGTON (UP)—An expert stuck his chin way out last night and said American men no longer dream about cute little blondes with no brains.

The current male ideal, he reported soberly, is the "glamazon." A tall, statuesque girl with a lot of classic beauty and at least a smattering of intelligence.

Dr. W. M. Krogman hastened to say he has nothing personal against girls who are short, blonde or stupid. He said he was merely passing along some observations he has made as an anthropologist.

Krogman, University of Pennsylvania professor and nationally known authority in his field, expressed his opinions to reporters after reading a technical paper to a meeting of physical anthropologists here.

As a case in point, Krogman cited the Miss America contest in Atlantic City. It is a matter of record, he said, that the choice of the judges in recent years has been a tall, snowy beauty who has demonstrated some kind of talent.

It was different in the old days. Twenty years or so ago, said Krogman, it was almost invariably "a petite little blonde who may or may not have had any brains."

The ideal of American womanhood has changed radically and for the better," he asserted. "Nowadays it goes beyond mere beauty of face and figure. It includes excellence of mind. We've come back to the Greek ideal that called for a sound mind and a sound body."

Krogman said this marks progress for American women. In his view it means that men more and more value women for their intelligence and ability as well as physical beauty.
